New Design for a New Me

Time to have a change. I am tired of my old clothes. Let me design some new ones for myself. Let me start with the accessories for myself. I like the color blue. Therefore I would wear a pair of blue glasses with a red cap.

As for the top of my body, I would like to wear a striped green T-shirt and a plain belt.

For the pants, I would like to wear dotted brown trousers because those are trendy.

For the shoes, I would like red trainers.

Finally, I think my design is very good.

A Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Recently, I have read an article about the increasing number of students working part-time while they are studying and I am now writing to express my view on this issue. Some of the students work part-time to get more job experience while the majority of them aim to be able to buy what they want such as the latest smartphones. In my opinion, I have a strong belief that secondary students should not work part-time while they are studying for some reasons.

Secondary students should not work part-time since it will have adverse effects on their academic performance. There is no denying the fact that Hong Kong is a competitive city. Not many students can secure a place in the university due to the insufficient tertiary institutions. Therefore, secondary students should study as hard as they can for the sake of their prospects. If they work part-time, the time they can spend on their studies will be deprived. As a result, their academic results in school as well as in the public examinations will be adversely affected.

Moreover, working part-time has detrimental consequences on secondary students' daily routine and health. In Hong Kong, students are required to attend school in the early morning. A regular school day usually lasts for nine to eleven hours. Not only do students need to finish a myriad of assignments, but they also have to prepare for tests and dictations. The workload is heavy enough for them. However, if they have to work part-time, there is no doubt that their mental conditions will not be good as a result of the enormous amount of work. Since they are exhausted, they cannot concentrate on the lessons and will end up learning nothing. Such lifestyle will also be harmful to their health. To maintain their mental and physical health, students should not work part-time while they are studying.

Also, students should treasure their time and equip themselves with good values. Undoubtedly, time is a priceless asset. Everyone should make good use of their time especially secondary students who will be the pillars of society shortly. Therefore, secondary students should enrich themselves with knowledge and take part in a wide variety of activities provided by their schools so that their character values such as compassion and respect can be developed. Only with good values can they be successful in their future career. If students work part-time, they will lose the meaningful time they can spend equipping themselves with good qualities they need to find a lucrative job. As a matter of fact, job experience does not count as much compared with good values when it comes to seeking employment.

In conclusion, secondary students working part-time do more harm than good. Their academic performance, lifestyle and future career prospects will be severely affected. Instead of working part-time while they are studying, they should work hard in school.

Yours faithfully

Chris Wong

Overcome My Problem

When I was a child, I faced many problems and challenges. I joined many competitions like football matches, the Speech Festival, etc. In all these activities, I faced many challenges, but I didn't feel hopeless as I would seek help if necessary. However, there is still one problem that I can't solve today. I have faced it ever since I was a baby. It came from the natural world – thunderstorm.

Some kids are scared of thunder because they are small and don't know what thunder is. When I was a kid, I was always scared of thunder. I remember when I was four years old, I was so active and naughty that I broke a vase. Then my father threatened that if I were naughty again, I would get killed by thunder and lightning. It dealt a significant blow to me because I thought that was true. After this bad memory, I have become a healthy child, but I'm still scared of thunder. That is embarrassing.

Now, I am 15 years old, but I still cannot forget this fear. I have to instinctively keep my hands on my ears and wear an eye mask when it is raining. Although I know that bad memory isn't true, I still get frightened. Sometimes, this way doesn't work because if it rains cats and dogs, the sound of thunder will get bigger as if it was the sound of a huge explosion. So, I can do nothing except shake my body in my bed. At school, I am grateful that my friends don't sneer at my weakness.

Last month, I found the best way to overcome my problem. I kept three cats when I was young. They were all afraid of thunder too. I tried to comfort my three cats when there was a thunderstorm. I found that it was a good way to reduce the fear while comforting them. So, I believe that we can solve our problems, challenges, and even our weaknesses. If we don't do anything and just evade the problem, we can't surpass ourselves at last.

My School Hero

Hello everyone. Today I want to share about my school hero.

Mr Kwok is an English teacher and also the class teacher of Class 4B. He is also the advisor of the BLCWC football club.

When I was a Form 1 student, I joined the football club and met Mr Kwok. He always smiles and helps us passionately. His smile makes him unique. He is caring like a father to me.

He watches our matches every weekend. I feel he is generous. He always buys some drinks to support us after the game. 'Just a game. Take it easy. Enjoy it!' It was his catchphrase when we started to play football. Although he is always busy with his job, he always spends his personal time to help us.

Mr Kwok always says, 'Study is important!' I felt annoyed after I heard this when I was a little boy. But now I agree with him entirely.

I Love My Mother

Dear Mum,

Hi! I am feeling worried while I am writing this letter because I am afraid you will be annoying again. Your typical questions "Why don't you bring your phone to the bathroom?" or "Why do you come home so late?" pop up in my mind. Your annoyance reminds me that I am your daughter. I argue with you all the time. Our relationship is not good. I just want to have a free and wonderful childhood so every time I still answer you to make you feel good. In fact, I don't want you to control me all the time. However, a book has changed the way I see you.

In May, I read a book about a naughty boy called Max. He always thinks his mum doesn't care about him. He feels very lonely and upset. Once, he cannot stand it anymore, so he wears his wolf suit and does some naughty things. His mother is scared and calls him 'wild thing!' Then he is sent to bed without eating anything. At night he dreams of going to a forest where the wild things have terrible teeth and roar their terrible roars. However, Max uses the magic trick to make him king of all wild animals. Although Max has the power, he is just a child. In fact, Max just wants someone to love him. Then he goes to find his mum, who has already prepared supper for him.

From this story, I learned that you keep asking me because you care about me. You are afraid that I spend too much time using the phone. You fear that I become rebellious and make friends with the bad guys. Among all of your children, I am the most stubborn one. I always think I am correct. No matter what I do, you will still forgive me and still love me. The ending of the story reminds me that no matter what happens you still care for me. The door of home is always open to me. When I argue with Katy, you will try to stop us. I thought you were not fair. But now I know it is because you love me.

All in all, I know you are the best mum in the world. I love you in any situation. I am looking forward to taking care of you when you need me!

Love,
Mei

The Naughty Dog Matty

Last Sunday, Jenny walked in the park with her dog. The dog's name was Matty. She said, 'Today is a nice day! Isn't it, Matty?' Matty barked, 'Woof! Woof!' and wagged this tail.

Suddenly, Matty ran away! Jenny shouted, 'Oh my goodness! What are you doing?' Matty showed his claws and scratched a man! The man was Louis. Louis shouted, 'Hey! What is happening? Why the dog was scratching me?' Jenny said, 'Maybe you are too handsome.' Louis said, 'Oh! Thank you.'

Meanwhile.,Matty bit him. Jenny shouted, 'Stop! Don't bite people.' Louis passed out. Finally, Jenny called the police. The police officers took him to the police station and ask him about what happened. Matty barked, 'Woof. woof woof! woof?' The officer said, 'OK. I know that, but you can't do that anymore. You will hurt people.' Matty barked,'Woof.....' Jenny woke up, and realized that it was a funny dream.

Online Shopping

Online Shopping is a great invention of modern technology. Nowadays, many people such as my family like to shop online. I like to buy things from online shops because the quality of goods is good and prices are lower than retail stores. I usually go online to buy things such as clothes, shoes and pens. My favourite online shopping website is Taobao because it is convenient, easy and quick to use. Let me tell you why I like shopping online.

First, you can find the lowest price items in the online shops. Finding many shops is easy.

Secondly, you can buy anytime on smartphones or computers. You do not need to go to a shopping centre.

Thirdly, online shopping is popular. Many people always buy things online because it is easy and quick. It is as easy as pie shopping online.

Lastly, some online stores may offer discounts, such as “buy three, get one free”. Some may have twenty percent off when you shop online. Some stores may even give some gifts to you.

What's best is that you don't have to pay cash. You can pay by Octopus or alipay. These are the reasons why I love shopping online. Are you interested in shopping online then?

A Bad Day at School

Yesterday was the worst day of my school life ever! It was a horrible day, and I will never forget it.

In the morning, I woke up late. I quickly ran to the bus stop, and it was raining hard. I didn't bring my umbrella, and I had to wait for ages in the rain for the bus. When I arrived at school, it was already the first recess.

I rushed up to the classroom, and I noticed all my classmates were doing Mathematics revision. I forgot we would have Mathematics quiz after recess! The quiz was crucial because it carried part of my course mark. Finally, I got a C, and my Mathematics teacher scolded me hard. He kept me after school till 7 p.m.

Another bad thing happened in Chinese lesson. There was a ringtone sound suddenly coming from somewhere. All my classmates were looking around, then they all looked at me. My Chinese teacher walked beside me and asked me to open my school bag. She found that my phone was ringing. I couldn't believe it because I remembered that I had already muted my phone in the morning. As a result, my Chinese teacher confiscated my phone, and it was kept in the office for a week.

At lunch, I forgot to bring my wallet to school, and I had no money to buy lunch, so I didn't eat anything. I was starving, and I felt dizzy, but I still had lessons in the afternoon.

After lunch, there was an unseen English dictation, and I spelt all the words wrong. I scored zero, but all my classmates got high marks. I felt very upset.

Yesterday was the worst day in my life, and I don't want to talk about it anymore.

How School Can Help Stop Student Smoking

A problem has appeared at school. Some students have been caught smoking on school property. Nowadays, there are a lot of channels to buy cigarettes, such as at the convenience stores and from the Internet. However, it is against the law with regard to selling cigarettes to those under 18. In fact, the sellers intend to make a profit so they neglect the age of customers. Thus, it is easy for students to purchase cigarettes and they may have a bad behavior of smoking. It is impossible to block all the chances of purchasing cigarettes. The following are three solutions which may help students to quit smoking and prevent them from stepping on a road of no return.

The first solution is to make promotions about the ways of quitting smoking. For example, making a poster which informs students of the bad effects of smoking briefly. It is important for students who do not have any source of money. Despite the fact that their parents give them enough money, it wastes money for them to buy cigarettes. It will ruin the relationship between the parents and their children. The parents will find it unacceptable for their children to smoke and buy cigarettes. The consequences of smoking can be stuck on the noticeboards. Another method is to organize a talk. The talk can be about the ingredients of cigarettes which may cause serious diseases such as lung cancer.

Students can know that smoking does more harm than good in the talk. The advantage is that students who have ever smoked can think whether smoking is their only interest and whether it is necessary to smoke or not.

Secondly, schools should stop using an unyielding method to control students' mind. Scolding is not the right way to urge students to abstain from smoking. Students may ignore the teachers and refuse to listen to their advice, which is actually blaming. Listening patiently instead of scolding is an effective and peaceful way to solve this problem. Stress is a common problem which causes smoking. Smoking cannot represent whether a person is good or bad. Thus, understanding students' mind is the best way to persuade them to avoid smoking.

Thirdly, we are a shield to protect them. At the beginning, they may feel tough and powerless to resist the addiction. Giving up is the biggest enemy during the process of quitting smoking. Friends, teachers and the school should play an important role in encouraging them. Just a simple sentence like 'you can do it' can encourage them when they are confused.

Every step of the school affects students. Solving the problem of smoking is the first step to nurture students. They may dedicate themselves in the future as they are the future pillars of our society.

Proposal for Teaching Biking during PE

Introduction

We would like to put forward the following proposal for a new PE activity, which has been prepared by the sports club. This proposal will discuss the benefits and details of the biking lesson.

Biking, a new PE activity

Recently, some students at our school have become bored during PE lessons. Thus, we would like to include biking lesson, which reduces boredom.

Become healthier

Biking can help students become strong, muscular and healthier. Besides, they will have better academic performance because it reduces their chance of being sick.

Build 'never give up' spirit

Biking is a sport, which requires great spirit. In particular, when students ride up the slopes, they cannot give up. If they give up, they will fall from the bike. Thus, biking helps keep students in high spirit.

Details about biking

We suggest a biking lesson once every two weeks. Also, we can hold it in the cycling park, which is near our school. Mr Wong, the winner of the Hong Kong Biking Competition, will train the students. He supplies all the bikes and equipment. Students need to pay $100 only.

A Travel Blog Entry

Last month, I visited the official website of the Macau Government Tourist Office, and I found lots of information and beautiful pictures of Macau. I found this place fascinating, so I decided to go to Macau with my family the following week.

Finally, we went to Macau last week. We spent an hour on the ferry, and we arrived at Macau in the morning. Then we went to our hotel which we had booked two weeks ago. After we put down our suitcases, we went sightseeing at Macau Tower. The views of Macau from the Macau Tower was fantastic. My father went bungee jumping at the Macau Tower, and he said that was exciting. After that, all of us felt a little bit hungry, and we went to the Lord Stow's Bakery to try some local food. I love the pork chop bun and Portuguese egg tart. These were very delicious. Next, we went to the Hac Sa beach. We swam and enjoyed the sunbathing there. At night, we went back to our hotel and took a long break until the next day.

On the second day, we visited a museum. There are lots of exhibits in the museum. After visiting the museum, we went shopping for souvenirs at the shopping mall. I bought lots of local snacks as souvenirs. In the afternoon, we went sightseeing again at Ruins of St Paul's. I took lots of beautiful photos there.

Finally, we went back to Hong Kong in the evening. We all felt exhausted and took a rest at home.

I think Macau is a good place for everyone to go because it is near Hong Kong. The distance from Hong Kong to Macau is not very far. We can always visit Macau.

Family is Important

Dear Mum,

We always start our letter with 'How are you?'. However, I think we are just like friends. Let's make it informal. In fact, I am very nervous while writing this letter because I seldom talk to you frankly. I always make you feel angry, but I want to have a good relationship with you. We rarely see each other because you are busy. Sometimes I just want you to stay with me. You even don't have time to worry about me. You seldom show up on the Parents' Day. You don't read my school report even though I perform well. When my performance was not good, you said I was lazy. You just don't understand my difficulties. It seems you don't care about me.

A few days ago, my teacher recommended a book to us. The name of the book is 'Where the Wild Things are' by Maurice Sendak. The main character in the book is Max, who is a naughty boy. One day, he argues with his family. Then he arrives at a forest. In the forest, he becomes the king of all wild things. He is excited about that. But one day, all of the animals are hungry, and they want to eat Max. He doesn't know what he can do. He regrets. Luckily, he escapes successfully. After that, he goes home and realises that his mum loves him so much.

This story told me that the family is important. It stated that no matter what we suffer, the family is the only place where we can find love. From the story, I learnt that everyone in the world has his or her problem. We should understand each other. In the future, I hope we can talk more so that I can know more about your life. I think we can make a family day at weekends. Let us play and sing together.

Another thing I learnt from the story is that we need to trust our family. In the story, Max did not believe his mother, so he got hurt. He is like me. I felt hurt because I didn't trust that you love me. In fact, every day after work, you are already very exhausted, and you need a rest. Being your daughter, I should also care about you.

All in all, I hope we can talk more.

Love,
Kayla

Beach Cleaning

Dear Organizer,

I am writing to express my concern about the activity which will be held next month. I firmly believe beach cleaning is the best and ideal activity among the three activities.

Firstly, beach cleaning not only benefits human, but it also helps animals.

There is no denying that humans dump toxic into the water once in a while. It is somehow a ubiquitous phenomenon in places which are not supervised. Businessmen aspire to cut down the cost of tackling the trash and earn more profits. Consequently, the beach will be filled with harmful materials which will poison animals. Since the government is not taking concerted action to solve this problem, I assume we should take the lead to address this issue.

Moreover, since we consume lives in the sea, we should clean the beach for our own sake. Primarily, no one wants to consume toxic fish. Cleaning the beach prevents us from consuming plastic or glass. If we accidentally eat the poisonous fish, we will suffer from serious illnesses. People may end up staying in hospitals overnight. Additionally, cleaning the beach can ameliorate Hong Kong's image. Most of the beaches in Hong Kong do not have sufficient people to keep an eye on the environment. People throw their unwanted things away without feeling ashamed. Tourists coming to Hong Kong assume beaches are clean and beautiful. If they see the clean beaches, they will think of Hong Kong positively.

I sincerely hope you will take my advice.

Yours faithfully,

Taylor Lee

A Letter to a Friend

Dear Tommy,

How are you getting on? I'm really sorry for not writing. Last time you taught me how to cook and it really worked out well! Guess what? All my family tried it and it's now their favourite food. I'm really glad to see that.

As you know, my parents were divorced when I was very young. I basically know nothing about it because I was so young at that time that I forgot almost everything that happened. My mum met her new boyfriend Tom last year and they are planning to tie the knot soon. Tom is a nice guy and he really cares about us, so I guess it's OK for my mum to marry him.

In fact, I am kind of worried about it. Just between you and me, I am actually quite scared about getting along with a new dad. First and foremost, I don't really know how to talk to him, I mean, in what way. Since he will be my new dad, I am supposed to treat him like a dad, right? To be honest, I can't somehow because when I talk to him, I can only see him as a friend.

Also, when my mum gets married with Tom, I will have to move to his house. That is a huge problem! I will have to face a totally new environment and my life will be such a hard one without you and my friends. You guys are important to me! In addition, maybe I will have to switch to a new school and I will know no one there! That's why I want to stay at mum's house instead of living at Tom's home. Unfortunately, I may have to move as a result of my mum's decision.

Lastly, I am afraid that I may lose my freedom if they really get married. Since I don't know Tom very well, he may be a super strict father! The worst part is we may squabble over the issue of my freedom.

Anyway I have to stop now because I have loads of homework waiting for me! Please give me some advice by dropping me a few lines. Bye!

Yours

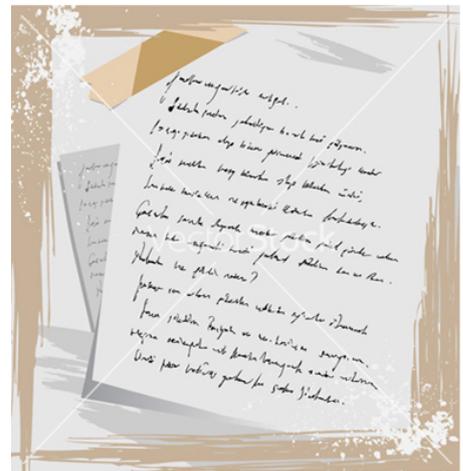

Chris

Don't Give up

Dear Lisa,

Hey, how are you? I know that you've decided to give up your studies so that you can be a full-time actress. I understand that you're enthusiastic about being an actress, but is that really the only career path that you can pursue by giving up your studies? I'm really worried about your decision, sis!

Firstly, I'm extremely worried about your living after you give up your studies. I think you have to face the reality as it's always very important for everyone to get a certificate of their academic performance in order to fulfil their dreams. No matter how good your acting is, large companies would always look at your certificates before they hire you. Have you ever thought of the situation if no company hires you? Then you'll get no income. Maybe they'll still give you a chance to act as a student but as time goes by, you'll never know if they'll still hire you in the future or not, right?

Further, I'm worried that you don't think clearly before you give up. It's really valuable for you to have a chance to study in the USA. Not many people could have this experience even though they've been putting all their effort into their studies. What if you find that you regret? You can never go back to the days when you can study at school.

You know what? Mom and dad have high expectations on you and that's why they've spent a lot of money in order to let you study in the USA. I understand that you want to spend more time practising your acting skills and become an extraordinary actress, but what if you find that it's no longer your dream when you grow older?

I really hope that you'll understand my worries and continue with your studies and of course your acting career. Also, remember to talk to me when you need me. I'm always willing to talk with you as you're my best sister.

Best wishes,
Vani

Precious Family Forever

Dear Mum,

Can you imagine how nervous I am now while I am writing this? I am shy, and I seldom talk to you frankly. Being your daughter, you want me to do better. But I am not smart, and so, I may not be able to do what you want. I know I always give you much trouble. Sometimes, you are annoying, and I always argue with you. Do you know why I always talk to my friends? It is because I am lonely. You seldom talk to me because you are very busy. The only thing I can do is to play with the mobile phone in my bedroom. Sometimes you are nice, sometimes you are bad. When I forgot to do my homework, you hit me. But when I said I wanted a new mobile phone, you bought it for me immediately. Though I am your daughter, I still can't figure out whether you love me or not. I don't understand why you say you love me, but you always argue with me and hit me.

Recently, my English teacher recommended a short story to us. The story is about a mischievous boy called Max. One day, he argues with his mum because he is lonely and he wants to control this world. His mum is angry and asks him to go to his bedroom. He feels angry and leaves home. He then spends almost over a year going to where the wild animals are. He becomes the king of the wild animals. Finally, he finds that the wild animals don't love him. When he is home, he finds his supper waiting for him, and it is still hot.

When I finished the story, I thought Max should talk to his mother more so that they understand each other more. We should build our family relationship on obedience and understanding. For us, I think I should talk to you more often. I remember that once I was doing a project in Tai Hing Estate at night, you were worried that I did not have anything to eat, so you came and gave me food! When I said I wanted to have a new mobile phone, you said 'No!' but finally, you still bought it.

I just want to let you know that in my deepest heart, I love you very much.

Lots of love,
Pauline
